

OUR INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND BUSINESS PRACTICE

Our international trade and business team helps clients navigate the maze of obstacles – both legal and cultural – involved in conducting trade and business internationally.

We are dedicated to helping clients achieve business goals on an international level, and tailor strategies that navigate the legal and regulatory complexities of global finance, manufacturing and trade. We help manage the risks and maximize the opportunities associated with the increasing inter and intra-state trade and business regulations.

International trade and business brings with it a wide scope of agreements and arrangements, and consequently, a broader scope of disputes. Our practice extends globally and provides a range of experience and resources designed to match the scope of global trade and business disputes, arising out of cross-border regulations, contracts, negotiations and criminal proceedings and sanctions; and to answer the needs of our clients wherever and whenever they arise.

We offer global perspective to legal needs, and provide valuable representation.

Some highlights of our team's work are as below:

- Advising an American company, one of the largest trading houses in the world, in cross-border white collar and regulatory dispute relating to the Rotomac scam in India.
- Advising an Indian fibre exporter in its dispute with a leading Singaporean supplier of yarns and fabrics before the Singapore High Court.
- Advising an Indian fibres exporter in its criminal dispute against the Egyptian buyer for fraud and non-payment of dues.
