

OUR SPORTS AND ENTERTAINMENT PRACTICE

Our sports and entertainment team has extensive experience representing clients doing business in sports. Whether representing media and entertainment houses, athletes, athlete support personnel or sports federations, our lawyers understand the unique issues presented by operating in the industry, including the importance of establishing and maintaining relationships, controlling sensitive information, maintaining privacy and confidentiality and achieving goals in tight timeframes.

We provide advice and advocacy to a wide array of players in the sports and entertainment industry including; in their disputes including in contract, financial, disciplinary and doping disputes, across forums such as Court of Arbitration for Sports and Anti-Doping Disciplinary and Appeal panels.

We strongly believe in the talent of sports persons, and have pioneered the Play True initiative to represent underprivileged and unrepresented professional athletes who have become embroiled in doping allegations by sporting authorities of the country.

Our clients have described our team as tenacious, dedicated, and focused on winning. We assemble teams combining technical excellence and industry expertise to fiercely defend the interests of our clients through clear and cogent written and oral advocacy. Our lawyers are trained to be attentive to our clients' needs and expectations, responsive, and organized.

Some highlights of our work are as below:

- Advising an Olympic Boxer to defend doping charges a few months before the Tokyo Olympics
- A public interest litigation challenging the constitutional validity of India's National Anti-Doping Code.
- Representing 4 Powerlifting Athletes that were tested positive for doping at the 44th National Games, India
- Representing a production house in defending an injunction against release of a remake of a blockbuster movie.
